DAMAGE running into the thousands of dollars was caused at Mayburg, about 18 miles out of Sheffield along the Tionesta Creek, when the ice-filled waterway went on the rampage. Some camps were completely demolished, moved hundreds of feet from their foundations, or overturned by the angry Tionesta.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

DON'T TAKE IT EASY

In the Book of Luke there is a story about a man whose yield was so great that he decided to build larger warehouses. When he accomplished this and surveyed all of his possessions, he reached a conclusion many people think they would like to reach. "Soul," he said, "take your ease, eat, drink and be merry, for you have much goods laid up for many years."

Note the words, Take your ease. Regardless of your position or circumstances in life, regardless of whether you have much or little, have you ever said to yourself, "I'd like to take it easy?" If you have, consider what happened next to the man about whom Luke wrote.

This man suddenly heard a voice: "Thou fool, this night thy soul is required of thee."

A decision to take it easy turned out to be that man's most important decision, but it was also his last decision.

Ease is a dangerous condition.

We are not concerned with taking it easy in the sense of a well-deserved rest or vacation after abundant labor, but with the kind of ease which means retirement—quitting where you are, staying put.

Such retirement is not of God, nor is it sanctioned in God's Word, for life is a forward thing from which there can be no retirement. When a human being stops "living," he is dead—even though he still has a body and is able to walk about.

There are three great tendencies in mankind to take it easy, which should be avoided.

1. Taking it easy beside one's failures.
2. Taking it easy beside one's successes.
3. Taking it easy right where you are now.

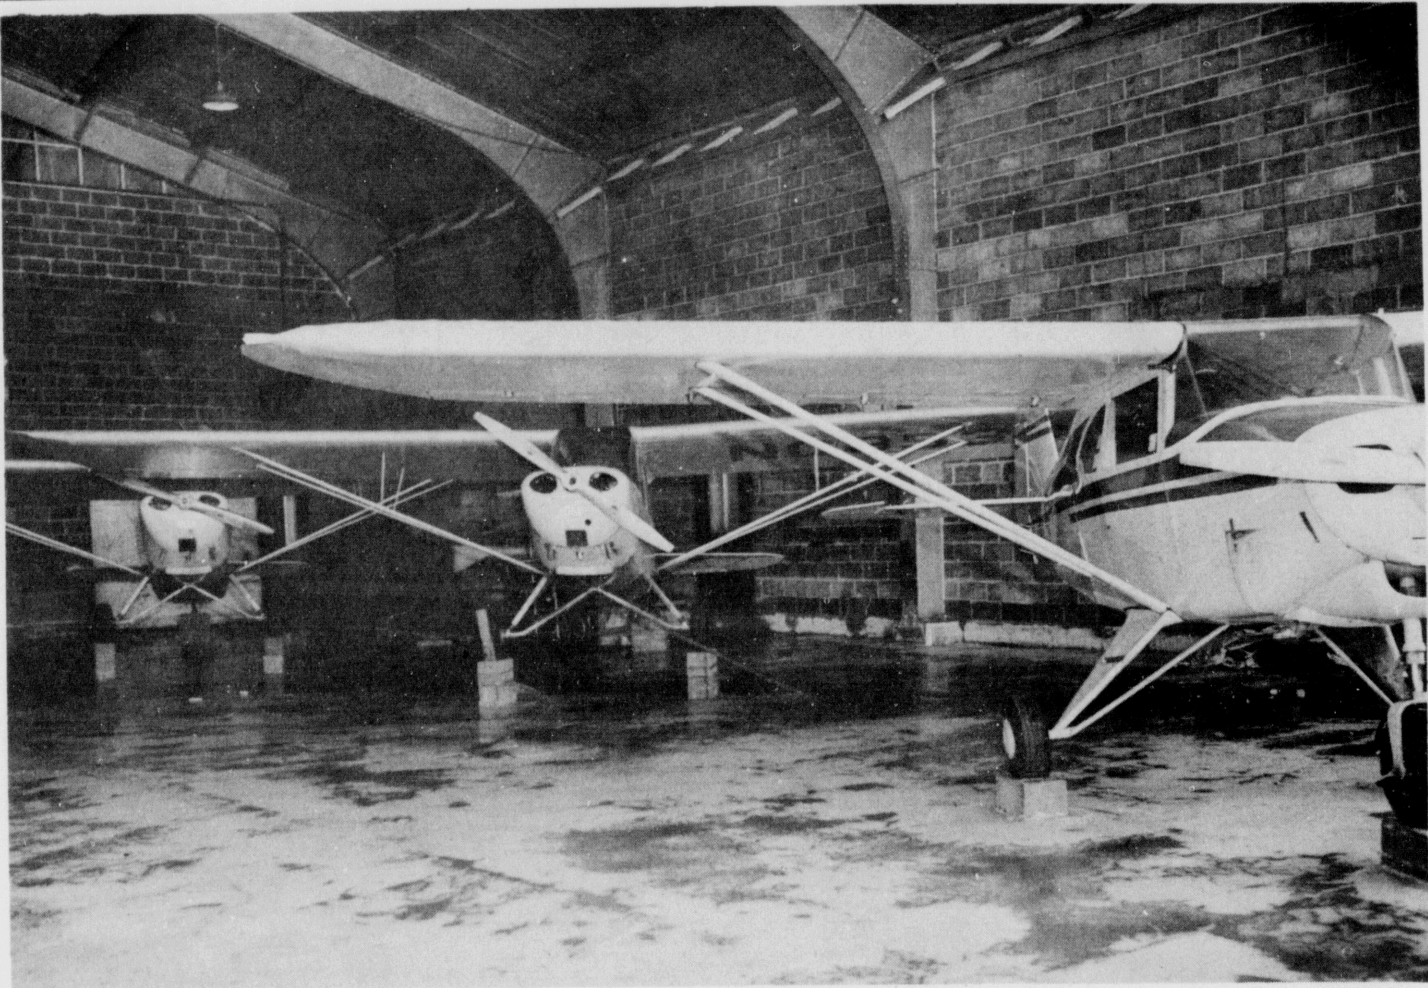

Judas Iscariot might have been forgiven, and he might have turned the direction of his life from the taint of betrayal to great accomplishments—if he hadn't decided to quit with his failure. Peter, after he denied the Lord three times, might also have ended his life, but instead he wept for his failure, obtained forgiveness and struck out ahead to a new life of service.

In the Bible Barnabas is pictured as a man of great material success. He could have retired with his wealth, but instead he became a companion of the great Apostle Paul, and he used his fortune for the benefit of those less fortunate.

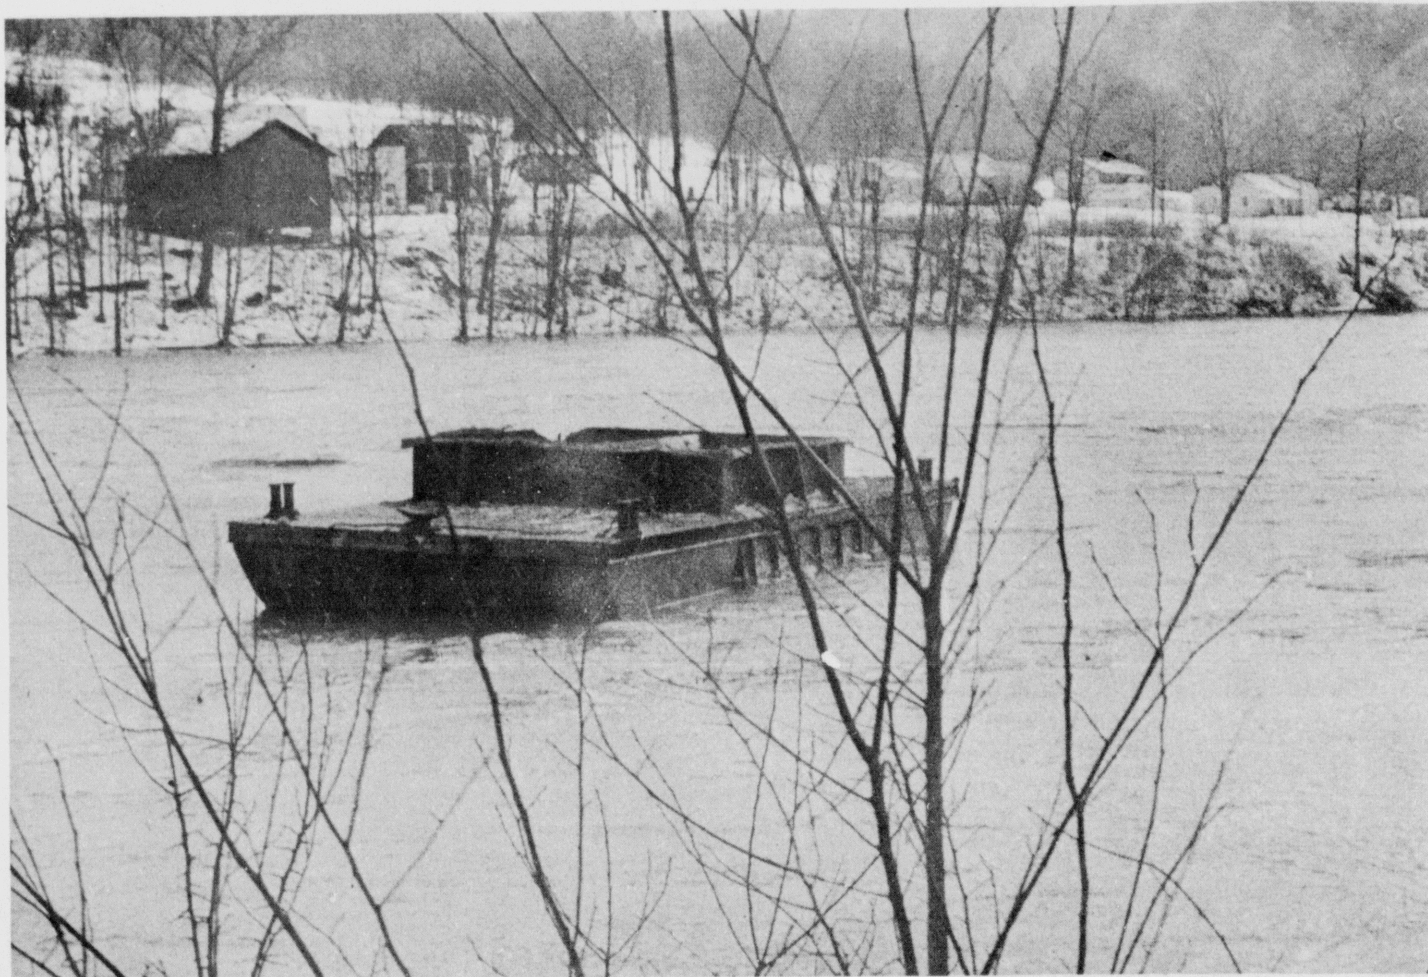

There can be no point of retirement at all, not for anyone at any time, for at that very point God may require your soul of you. It is dangerous to become discouraged and quit because of past sins or failures; it is dangerous to take it easy because of past triumphs or successes; and, in fact, it is dangerous to take it easy regardless of your situation in life.

Ease is the most dangerous thing in the world.

Don't take it easy.

NEW VERSION OF HANGER FLYING

ESCAPE. An effort to capture the racing Warren Concrete Products Co. barge had just failed when this was fired just below the Tidioute bridge. The cable snapped as the picture was taken but the resulting spray does not show. The barge eventually went aground at McKeesport. The barge will be sold.

MR. AND MRS. R. E. SANDBERG

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Sandberg, Park st., North Warren, were honored Sunday by their children who held an open house on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple were married January 23, 1909, in the Jamestown Swedish M. E. Church. They have resided in this area for approximately the past 35 years. Mr. Sandberg is a retired employe of the Deluxe Metal Furniture Co.

The three children who arranged the affair are Mrs. Willard Ecklund, Jamestown, Ralph and Howard, of Warren.

Following the recent "Big Blow", Mr. and Mrs. Norman Atkins of Sugar Grove discovered a large portion of the barn roof "gone with the wind." Damage was estimated at approximately $475.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

RUSSIA BEATING US IN AID TO OTHERS?

The hungry man who needs your bread crumbs or your extra dollars to stay alive will be the first to attest that the proof of a true religion is in the doing, and in his case he will judge your form of government and the practice of your moral code by the assistance he receives. This is the core of the war which now is being fought.

There are seventy-five nations with a billion people who are neither democracies nor communistic. It is the battle for these minds which now occupies the center of the target at which the Soviets are firing. If they win in this area the free part of the world will be the loser.

Since the war we have spent about sixty-five billion dollars on foreign aid, but for the most part it has been checked out to nations already in our fold, or to those in which we have major military installations. The percentage which has gone to improve the lot of millions so that they may live a better life and may choose to be governed in a democratic society is very small.

Only a fifth of the sixty-five billion went to under-developed countries. And a third of that fifth was spent in areas where we have military connections and are spending our money for selfish reasons.

As a nation it is doubtful if we have spent any more to help the remaining billion hungry and underprivileged people than have the Russians. The Russians who do not believe in Christianity, and in fact are attacking it in the press, spent as much as we did to assist this impoverished mass of humanity. The entire free world has spent a very little over one billion dollars since the war to provide aid to the seventy-five nations which do not house our military machines. The communist group has given them a billion dollars worth of assistance!

When we say a bit over a billion dollars from the free world we reveal that the United States did not give all of it and even if it provided the majority of the dollars, it did not surpass the atheistic Russians. And the figures we mention also include private investments.

If this is the record of a Christian nation the comparison is not one that will convince potential converts that we practice our preaching and that they should join in bearing the cross. If we spend a pittance on them while spending many more billions where there is a material return for us we look no better in their eyes than the atheists.

"Two thousand two hundred years ago Aristotle observed that poverty is the 'parent of revolution and crime.' History has yet to disprove him. Two-thirds of the people of this world are enveloped by this malignant poverty.

"Surely, there can be no doubt of our desire to help these people. To the question, can we afford it, the answer is simple: if Russia can, we can."

So wrote Howard C. Petersen in the January 17 issue of the Saturday Review. Mr. Peterson is president of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company and cannot be classified as a star-gazer. He has served in the War Department as assistant secretary of war, and has had much to do with international monetary problems. His article includes much that we have written here, and more.

SOVIETS ATTACK CHRISTIANITY

The fight for men's minds is an all-out battle on the part of the Soviets, and though you may not think their arguments plausible, don't forget that many of the ears on which they fall have not known freedom, and communism may sound sweet by comparison with their oppressed lot. They also have not experienced the results of true Christian living, and even those who have been touched by missionary work are illiterate and uneducated. They are not equipped to contradict atheistic statements.

Religious dogma is attacked by Russian leaders who point out that our satellites have not found any angels or supreme beings in their flight. Our idea of heaven has been punctured full of holes by earth rockets say these anti-Christ publicists.

They argue that it is comical in this day of jet flight to say that man cannot reach the heavens without divine intervention. They also point out that modern knowledge makes it possible to study phenomena which we can't see, smell, or sense, and this being true we have proved there is no spirit or disembodied material.

This may cause you to smile, but it is a far more potent argument than you may realize. To the illiterate millions it may make sense. This is especially true if our missionaries limit themselves to a Bible interpretation that is no broader in scope than the Russian attack.

In fact we suspect that there are many of our own church members in this nation and in other free nations who will be made very uncomfortable by much of the Soviet argument. The depth of religion in many is far too literal, and much of it even borders on superstition.

To these, Y. T. Fadeyev, chief of the scientific-atheistic section of the Science and Life journal, is aiming his broadcasts from Moscow, and you can be sure that this approach will be used on all fronts to undermine our moral fibre and control the minds of those whose stomachs will be filled with Soviet help.

The terrible weaponry of 1959 is being used to push men's minds back two thousand years, and ironically, by the rocket's red glare.

BUYERS' CORNER

THEN CAME THE GAS BILL

The shock of the flood and the crippling cold which followed was still chilling our marrow when the mail arrived. Now we know why the publicity releases received from the gas industry are so optimistic. We also know why their annual income moves upward every twelve months.

The cost of heating our home was about $37. A tidy sum for keeping one half of our living day comfortable during bitter months.

Obviously what we need is a good coal furnace. That is until we enquire concerning the cost of good anthracite. This, we learn is $24.50 a ton. From experience we know that our home in cool weather eats up about a ton and a half a month. Which brings us back to about $36 or $37.

How do these gentlemen manage this business? No matter what fuel you use the bill seems to come out at about the same figure. They must base their price on the potential heat generated.

No matter how they figure it, the fellow with the pen and check book hasn't any place to hide. But we have one comfort. We called a coal office to learn the current price and were told they didn't have any.

HEALTH INSURANCE BIG BUSINESS

Seventy per cent of our population today has its pocketbook protected against at least part of the cost of being ill. A new high for health insurance payments was paid out last year when benefits totaled almost $5 billion. The exact figure was $4.81. In 1957 it was $4.7.

A new wrinkle that will be pushed in a big way this coming year is the health insurance for those 65 years of age and over. The New York Times had a full page ad Sunday in which this kind of insurance was offered for $6.50 a month. It doesn't make any difference if you are ninety and have a bad heart, the crud, and eleven toes; just pay $6.50.

The increase in the number of people using health policies to take them through sick periods includes major expansion in various fields of this kind of protection. The number covered for major medical expenses has increased from 13.3 million to 16.5 million. The number protected against regular medical expenses now is 33.2 million. And surgical expenses now are covered for 67.5 million people.

Loss of income policies also are on the increase. About 32 million people now have such coverage.

The frequency of use is interesting. Two out of five people with health insurance last year used their policies. Seven out of ten families who have policies have used them since they went into force.

The insurance companies now are attempting to improve their service. Recommendations include the suggestion that companies offering health insurance policies should eliminate the practice of refusing to renew policies solely because the health of the insured has deteriorated.

They also are urged to make it easier for those over sixty-five to protect themselves, and to increase the protection of those who have retired. Efforts also should be made to ease the conversion of group policies to individual when employment changes or ceases.

As the editor of a column which is intended to protect the buyer, or at least to occasionally entertain and amuse him, we believe the insurance companies should take another step as a means of revealing the quantity of the insurance offered. We suggest that the records of all insurance companies should be published annually.

We are not talking about their financial statement. We refer to the percentage of payments made as compared with the premiums paid. We have seen a few of these records and we have noted some companies paying out as little as fifty per cent. A major share of the good companies in this area alone pay out eighty per cent and better in some health classifications.

We also suggest that those who wish to be insured should decide what kind of protection they want. If they knew the law of averages by which the insurance companies figured their rates, they would know where the need is greatest.

It has been said that the average time spent in a hospital is seven days. If that be true it is a poor policy that does not cover every penny of cost for those first seven days. Doctors also can charge you for every visit to your room and certainly for calls and visits after you leave the hospital. These should be included in a good policy.

You also should be allowed a flat sum for related hospital expenses. If certain items are not allowed the insurance company is playing the law of averages and figures to save a few dollars on your bill. But if you are allowed a flat $200 or $300 for such expenses you can spend them as you wish.

We urge those buying insurance to state their requirements and to make those requirements include the areas where the "meat" is. Any good company can cover you as you wish.

The law of averages is right there in the book and there is a price. State your own specifications and try several companies. You thus obtain a fair competitive bid.

When their offers vary because of differences in their coverage you have no way of knowing who is giving you the best deal.

For example, let us say that you want $15 a day for a month of hospitalization, $250 for surgery, $300 for related hospital costs, $300 for medical care, $35 a week for ninety days of unemployment, and the right to re-enter the hospital within a reasonable time after discharge. Ask five companies to bid on such a program and see who gives you the best offer. The major difference may be the time allowed between illnesses.

And most important are two items. No policy is better than the fine print. Any reputable company should be willing to write up your policy for your examination before signing. And in the fine print should be assurance that it cannot be cancelled because you become a sick person.

MORE BOWLING ALLEYS. Plans are formulating for the construction of an eight-lane bowling alley which would be situated in Sugar Grove Borough. If everything goes as hoped for, construction will start in the spring with an opening set for September. Automatic pin setters would be installed.

FACES CHARGES HERE. Ronald F. Fornholtz, 21, of Wilkes-Barre, was returned to Warren from Phillipsburg Wednesday by borough police and will likely be arraigned before a justice sometime today on charges of auto larceny.

The young man, while passing through Warren Tuesday, stole a car belonging to Mrs. Ruth Amacher, 101 Prospect st. The car had been repaired by Dan's Garage and had been parked on Cedar st. about 4 p.m. for Mrs. Amacher to pick up.

The woman believed the work had not been finished when she arrived to pick up her vehicle and continued on home. She was notified by State Police about 8 o'clock that evening that a young man was attempting to sell tools from the car in Kane to buy gas. Police in the area were alerted and Fornholtz was picked up in Phillipsburg for a stop sign violation. He admitted the theft while undergoing interrogation.

Fornholtz was hitch hiking to his home when he committed the violation.

ACCIDENT INVOLVES HYDRANT. Richard L. Hiles, Sugar Grove, was proceeding along Madison ave. early Tuesday when an auto operated by George N. Eckland came out of Dartmouth st. and struck him broadside. His vehicle was sent into a fire hydrant on the corner, knocking it off.

Damage to the cars was estimated at $700 and Eckland was charged with the stop sign violation.

ICY STREETS were blamed when cars operated by F. Joseph Campagna, 1505 Sill st., and Theodore Bleech, 17 Locust st., collided at the intersection of Center and Redwood streets about 2:40 p.m. Sunday. Total damage was over $400.

ABOUT $2,000 DAMAGE was caused shortly before 11 o'clock Sunday evening on Jackson Run rd. when James C. Wick, North Warren, swerved to miss a parked car and skidded into the path of an approaching auto operated by Robert H. Matthews, R. D. 1, Warren. Young Wick received a cut nose and lips in the crash.

FIRE LOSS. Faulty wiring was believed to have caused the $3,000 fire that struck Hellman's Grocery Store in Sugar Grove around 4:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Most of the damage caused was in the basement and back portion of the structure.

Sugar Grove, Youngsville and Busti volunteer firemen responded to the alarm. The loss to the building, located next to the branch bank, was covered by insurance.

FLOOD BRIEFS...

The high, raging waters of the Allegheny River and area streams which hit Warren County last Wednesday night and Thursday have returned to a normal level, but the difficult job of cleaning up remains.

Cold temperatures which first arrived with heavy winds about midnight Wednesday in most part have continued, only to hamper victims in restoring their homes to a normal state.

The river itself started to recede from its 16.6 foot crest about 8:30 last Thursday morning, and, although it still flowed around the 14-foot level Friday night, it has dropped to about 7 feet now.

ICE JAMS

Ice jams still remain up stream. One is located at Kinzua, but is not causing trouble with back water or preventing a full current from flowing down the Allegheny. Two others exist in the Vandalia, N.Y., area, and there again no great harm is being done. Officials are, however, attempting to blast away small portions of ice to gradually eliminate the blockage.

IN THE BOROUGH

Operation "clean-up" is in motion on Warren's West Side and heating systems being restored. Broken lines are preventing some families from returning home.

By Saturday night Route 6 through the West end of town had been opened by large plows. It was the last of the main highways in the county blocked.

Borough employees are making every effort to get the ice-caked streets cleaned up and are still pumping out cellars.

Merle W. Kremer, Hugh R. Logan, William C. Lundahl, Stuart J. Myers, A. L. Rasmussen, Ray J. Reed, Richard Ross, Raymond W. Steber, Ray Stein, Oliver Watt and Duane E. Wilder. The new board will elect its officers at a special meeting this afternoon. They will be installed at the annual membership banquet on February 25th.

AT NATIONAL CONVENTION. Mr. and Mrs. Ben White, of the White-Way Drive-In in Starbrick, left Monday for the three-day National Drive-In Theatre Convention in Pittsburgh.

CO-CHAIRMEN APPOINTED to conduct the 1959 Warren County Heart Fund Drive in February are Dr. L. W. Krespan, local dentist, and Gerald L. Coates, of the accounting firm Swanson, Glass and Coates. As in the past, the drive will be conducted through a county-wide mail solicitation. The goal is $12,000.

The leaders of the campaign are both members of the sponsoring Warren Lions Club.

TO ADVANCE their knowledge of modern newspaper publication the Publications Club of Beaty Jr. High school made a tour of the Warren Observer Wednesday afternoon. The group consisted of (l. to r.) advisor Miss Marie Knapp, Charles McMullen, John Wendell, Jim Blackman, Betty Henry, Jack Daelhausen, Margaret Shaffer, Terrance Greenlund, and Susan Walls.

The Warren Chapter of the American Red Cross disaster committee, headed by Ed Slick, went into operation Wednesday night and over the serious period fed over 100 refugees and workers at the various churches, provided blankets and cots for the needy, etc.

The organization reminds area residents who have suffered flood damages and are in need of financial assistance to register at the Red Cross office, 404 Market st., Warren.

National headquarters has informed the Warren chapter that some 3,400 families are suffering from flood effects in the state and that funds to meet the needs of disaster relief on all levels are needed. Contributions can be sent to the local chapter.

CD'S ROLE

The county Civil Defense unit, which did a commendable job along with police officials and other agencies, halted most of its operations Sunday morning. Auxiliary police did continue to function on traffic and clean-up details, however.

The two "ducks" dispatched to assist in Meadville returned to Warren about 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

PEEVED

The DeLuxe Metal Furniture Co., the hardest hit of industries in the West Side flood area, has expressed discontentment over the lack of protection that section receives at flood time. No decision has been disclosed, but it has been revealed that New York state interests are anxious to have the plant relocated. Damage to the plant may range as high as $100,000.

MEETING MONDAY

The County Commissioners have called a meeting for 8 o'clock Monday evening in the large court room of the Warren County Court House for the purpose of discussing with supervisors or members of their boards the reimbursement funds available for damage caused to roads, bridges and public buildings in areas struck by the flood.

The Federal Civil Defense Unit requested the meeting.

REELECTED PRESIDENT at the annual meeting of directors and members of the Warren Visiting Nursing Association was Miss Mary Craft. Working with her throughout the year will be Mrs. Thomas L. Armstrong, vice president; Mrs. Robert Donaldson, secretary; Henry Marymont, treasurer; and Carroll Smith, auditor.

TOO EMBARRASSING!

Modesty is praiseworthy in its place, but not when it means risking your life. Don't let undue modesty keep you from a health checkup every year.

Today, 46 per cent of women with breast cancer are being saved. But with early diagnosis and prompt treatment, this number could be almost doubled!

An annual health checkup is your best protection against cancer. Make it a habit . . . for life!

Flood Victims Start "Operation Clean-Up" in Stricken Area

January 22 Flood

BUSY were borough employees this week as they attempted to bail out a long list of West Side cellars.

THE RIVERSIDE bowling alleys (background), which just opened, escaped flood waters covering the West Side of Warren. DeLuxe Metal (large plant in center) was not so fortunate with damage caused in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Rampaging Tionesta Creek Destroys Mayburg Camps

ONE WAY. One way traffic existed at two spots on Route 666 between Lynch and Truemans by Monday and only then because highway crews had opened a path in the piles of ice from the Tionesta Creek.

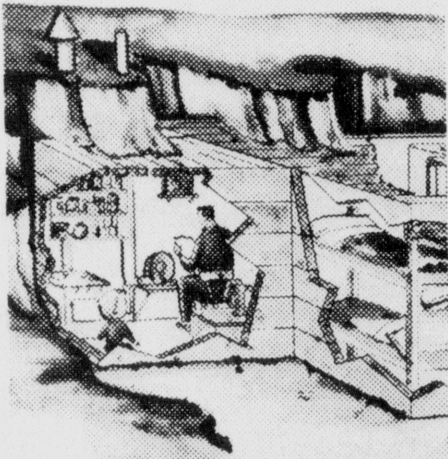

BEAUTIFUL, BUT UGLY. A look east from the Mayburg bridge showed positive evidence the Tionesta deposited layer upon layer of ice on the flats. To the right is the sector where the camps pictured on this page are located.

SWEPT CLEAN. The camp below was carried well over 200 yards from its foundation (above left) by the raging Tionesta at Mayburg.

EXCEPT for the roof, the unstoppable ice ripped this cottage in half.

ASIDES

DIKE NEEDED

When a member of the hospital board was quoted as saying that there should be a dike built on the South Side to protect that building, some residents in other areas indicated their displeasure. They fear that such a dike will increase the pressure against their own neighborhood.

But what good is a hospital if it is not available for use during a major emergency? It should be one of the key centers in such times. It also is evident that patient lives can be lost through moving when the water actually is not high enough to endanger the lives of the healthy who can leave their homes.

A previous effort to extend the dike which protects the upper half of the South Side fell through when it was attacked by a portion of the press because it might ruin the beauty of Crescent Park. That is a poor reason, even if it were true. But it isn't a fact.

A gradual slope could be graded to the river's edge and the resulting lawn would look no different than any river bank. It might be improved.

But the dike will be of no use unless something is done with the storm sewers. Water appears on the streets of the South Side before it comes over the banks. Unless valves are installed to shut out the backwater the dike may prove useless.

We previously have proposed two approaches to this diking business as a protection from the direct flow of water and ice. A dike could be built around the West Side, north of the airport. Thus the large port area would be left free to give the river room to move.

And a dike could be built around the inside of the Crescent playground so as to minimize the bottleneck. However the bottleneck at that point is determined by the width of the bridge. No matter what happens immediately upstream the water must come through that point at bridge width.

HOPE THEY MAKE IT

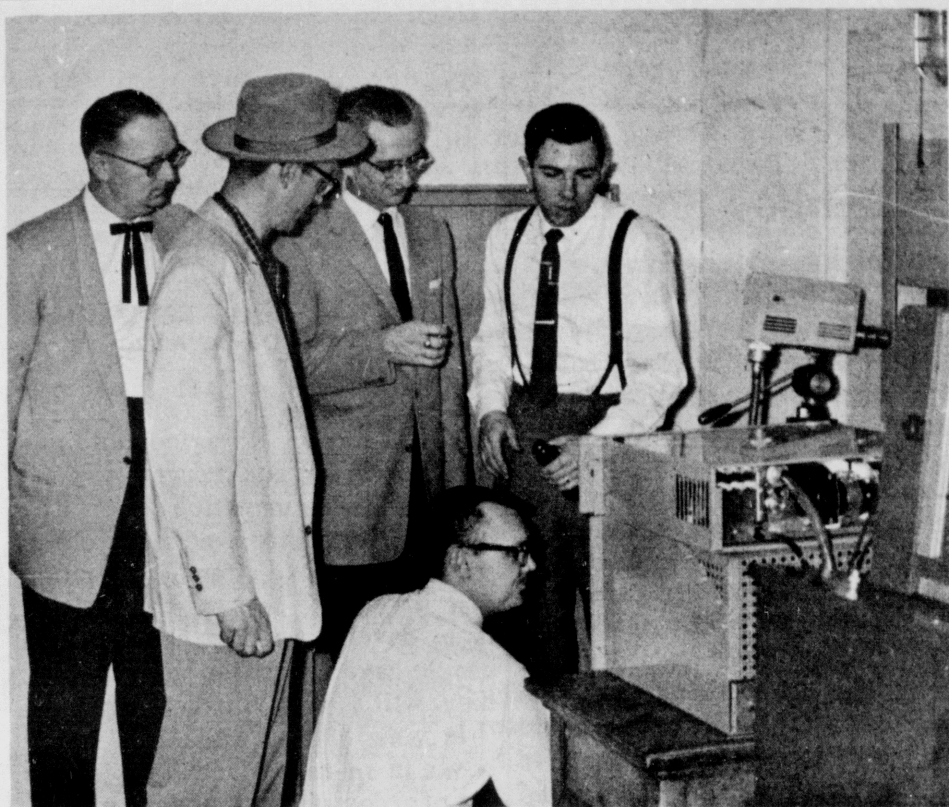

Perhaps our greatest chance for world peace is for the Russians, the Chinese, and others to catch up with us, or at least come close, in the comforts of life. The more they have the more they will want and perhaps their economy will become so uplifted that their prices might reach a level with which all could compete.

But there is another little angle involved. You are not apt to see inspection teams in Russia until the Soviets no longer are ashamed or afraid to have them there. In fact, afraid to have their own inspection teams roaming freely around our nation.

The comparison would be odious to people who might believe they are well off.

WHO DETERMINES CONELRAD

We see little sense in constantly having conelrad tests at the same time of day. We have suffered through three in a row at exactly the same time and in the midst of one of our most favored programs. Naturally we, and no doubt many others, are peeved, because it is the type of program which requires constant attention to the speaker if you are to gain by the viewing and listening.

We suggest that all programs be made to share this loss of a minute, thus serving two purposes. It would be a truer test and we would be treating all producers and viewers alike. So far none of the "lush" programs has been bothered.

DISEASES NOT ELIMINATED

The fact that there was a 75 per cent increase in cases of measles in 1958 reveals that we have not eliminated such diseases. What we have done is contain them by stopping the costly epidemics.

But it requires constant alertness and enlightened use of the facilities available to keep disease under control. And the public must do its part if we are to overcome the killers.

An example is infantile paralysis. It killed 220 people in 1957. With this kind of death facing us, forty million Americans in the recommended age group have not had polio shots. The vaccine is deteriorating on supply shelves following the crash program to provide it.

And many doctors recommend that all of us should take the shots. The original drive was aimed at protecting the age groups where it is most prevalent, but all of us are potential victims. It even is possible that if it is stopped among the young it will fight for life by becoming a menace to the adults. See your doctor.

100,000 TREE SEEDLINGS

Your county farm agent now is accepting applications for tree seedlings which are provided by the state. You also can obtain advice on selection, planting machines, and financial aid from the district forester, Box 807, Warren. Charles S. Merroth, the forester, two weeks ago revealed that over 100,000 seedlings already had been applied for.

MANY ATTEND PENN STATE

Warren county now has forty-seven students enrolled at Pennsylvania State university and averages about forty-three each year. It has been as high as eighty-four. The coed enrollment from Warren county ranges from three to eleven. Since 1930 our county has sent 1080 men and 187 women to the state university.

CASTRO ON TV

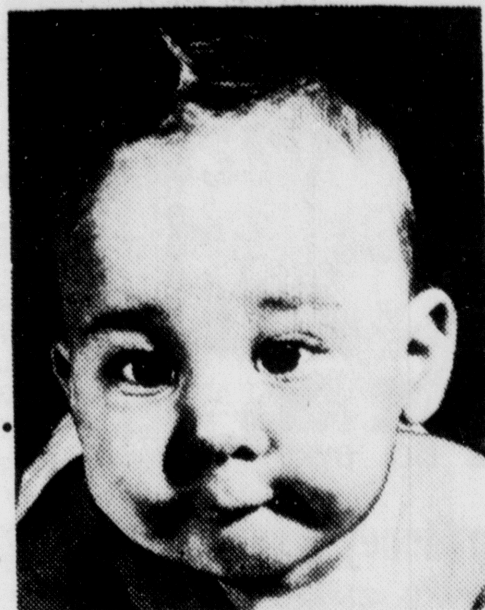

Edward R. Murrow and Jack Paar soon will have Fidel Castro on their shows. Murrow will interview him on "Person to Person", February 6. Paar went to Havana to make a filmed interview which will be seen some time after he returns next Monday.

A TELEVISION AID, Dale Munn, a representative of Kintel Corp., who manufacture electrical equipment, is installing the TV camera at Beaty High for the Night of Harmony as Bill Loucks, president of the Warren Television, and members of the Barbershoppers look on. The television was installed so that the overflow crowd could watch the performance in the Beaty cafeteria.

COUNTY LIBRARY SERVICE

One of the obvious problems that will shape up, and we suspect already has emerged, when it comes time to get down to cases on the proposed county library service is the administration of the system. Who will be boss, always is one that faces groups when they decide to do something together.

At the start, Warren has the books and the county has the population, and the additional funds. The county's participation also provides a bookmobile. This shouldn't pose too large an obstacle to open minded citizens, but too often it does.

School jointures have had to choose superintendents to coordinate the work of all the units involved. Why shouldn't the same be true of a library service? Each would remain independent within itself, but there would be coordination.

In the case of the county library, the county and the state will add funds to the kitty, and eventually will build up a large supply of new books. The Warren library has over 70,000 volumes, but has no more money than it needs to do its own job.

Why not a fully qualified librarian to coordinate the effort, and another librarian for each of the two segments? Warren has its librarian. The county also will need one.

The arrangement should be by contract between the Warren and the county board. The contract should allow either to withdraw at a stated period or when one of the parties violates it.

Very much a part of this system are the little libraries already functioning in county communities. Alone they are unable to adequately serve even their own towns. But through cooperation they can do a very complete job. And without them a bookmobile service would be greatly hampered.

This is a cooperative effort in which all have their proportion to give. Anyone who hesitates about coming in on equal terms is suspect.

The state officials who are ready to provide money for the purpose of establishing a service in Warren county as a demonstration of what can be done have written a letter in which it is stated that it is not necessary for either side to supervise the work in order to make the area eligible for the help. This leaves it up to the two boards to reach an understanding. Once this is done the money and the bookmobile will be available.

Proposed is a coordinated effort with all libraries working together in an exchange of books, ideas, and effort. This always has been the basis of past proposals made by major groups which have attempted to provide county library service.

If there is any difference today it is the major part the Warren library suddenly is willing to play in the demonstration. All involved should learn much and should enjoy great improvements and advantages as the result of such an experience.

WE MUST COMPETE

Talking about libraries quite naturally swings our thoughts to good books and the competition offered by comics, television, and many cheap paper backs. We often have written that the way to beat the competition is to develop reading habits. Once people have learned to enjoy the best they will settle for nothing less.

In view of this we believe rental books in so-called free libraries are out of order, unless there are matching books on the free shelves. The young reader is not inspired to visit the library for the purpose of reading reference books or serious works. He is best baited there by the novel.

The same goes for adults who have got out of the habit of visiting the library. The rentals should be there for more than a means of obtaining money. They basically should exist only to assure circulation of popular volumes which are on the shelves but are much in demand.

People may keep a book over the allowed time and pay the fine. Thus its circulation is limited. The corresponding rental volume provides added circulation and also revenue to defray the cost of both.

We also believe that libraries should provide a larger selection of classics to our schools' English classes. Here is where they can become exposed to the best literature. Occasional reading periods during English class will result in many pupils learning to enjoy the best authors. There should be enough books in every class not only to supply each member with a book but also to give them a little choice.

If our own population is to be truly literate and informed we must not place blocks in the way of young minds, blocks in the form of book rentals and limited supplies.

BEAUTY WITH YOUR MUSIC

If you like your melodies flavored with a pretty face, Pittsburgh's symphony orchestra has a pair of concerts coming up on February 6 and 8 that should move you south to hear Roberta Peters sing arias from the works of Mozart, Stravinsky, and Bellini. You also will hear the orchestra play "William Tell"

CRUSADE CHAIRMAN. Col. Edward R. Ayers, Sheffield, a retired U. S. Army officer, has volunteered to act as county Crusade Chairman for the Warren County unit of the American Cancer Society's campaign for funds in April.

A native of Aspinwall, Col. Ayers served with the U. S. Army during both World Wars, the Korean War and in the CBI Theatre.

He is a past commander of the American Legion and is a director of Warden's Service in Sheffield's Civil Defense program. Among his hobbies is his outstanding collection of Indian lore representative of the Allegheny Reservation.

GOP CONSIDERS PROGRAM

The executive committee of the national GOP committee has authorized its chairman, Meade Alcorn, to appoint a group to explore the legal and financing problems involved in setting up a weekly television program tentatively titled, "Republican Forum of the Air". The program will feature intelligent, thoughtful discussions of issues by people who are well informed, such as cabinet members and congressmen, farmers, business men, professional people.

The intended aim of the venture is to counteract the programs presently sponsored by the AFL-CIO and the Farmer's Union.

EDUCATIONAL TV FUTURES

The Educational Television and Radio Center at Ann Arbor, Mich., has announced several series which it will produce for the 1959 season. "Search For America", a series of thirty-three half-hour programs, will focus on practical problems in world relations, education in the United States, the national economy, and crime and delinquency.

"Astronomy For You" will offer basic instruction in astronomy with James Pickering, of New York's Hayden Planetarium, as host. Two series of programs on sea life have been prepared, one from the East Coast and one from the West. Antarctica will be explored in two different series, one featuring Dr. Lawrence Gould, IGY scientist, and the other the British expedition to Antarctica in 1957-58.

Drama will not be neglected as "David Copperfield" will be presented as a serial in thirteen parts and "Henry V" is also scheduled. Music will be featured in twelve programs devoted to interpretations and performances of Beethoven and Bartok by Chicago's Fine Arts Quartet and the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be presented in a number of concerts.

Art will be represented by a series titled "The Intent of Art", plus a series featuring some of Great Britain's leading artists, and a layman's guide to modern art.

Social problems will be explored, too. One series will deal with a comparison of Russian and American education and instruction. Another, "Twentieth Century Revolutions", will show how social, economic and political revolutions are influencing the world situation. "Children Growing" is designed to give parents pointers on rearing children, and the exceptional child will be investigated in a series by that title. Problems of mental hospitals and prisons will be explored in "Community of the Condemned" and "Escape From the Cage".

Public affairs will be treated in a series on constitutional law called "Decision", another on the United Nations, and still another on the changing metropolitan scene. Opinions of leaders in thought and action will be considered in a new series called "Platform". Already signed for this series are Paul-Henri Spaak, Frank Lloyd Wright and Senator Hubert Humphrey.

Unfortunately, few of us, if any, will be privileged to see and hear these programs. We live in a "television blight" area which is not serviced by network educational channels. And so we will continue to be malnourished on westerns, give-aways and who-dunits.

HEADED THIS WAY

A NEW LOOK AT LOVE, a musical program, is the next show sponsored by Pontiac. It will be seen Saturday, Feb. 28, 9-10 p. m. on the NBC network. Louis Jordan will host the show and guest stars will be Ginger Rogers, Marge and Gower Champion, Elaine May and Mike Nichols.

FRANCES LANGFORD PRESENTS is a special scheduled for Sunday, March 15, 10-11 p. m., on NBC-TV. Special guests will be Bob Hope, Hugh O'Brian, Julie London, Edgar Bergen, George Sanders and Jerry Colonna with a round-up of musicians and dancers.

NBC KALEIDOSCOPE will present the famous Christiani Brothers Circus in a full hour telecast on Sunday, May 3. One of the biggest of the nation's big tops, the Christianis will show their most famous acts, including bareback riders, trapeze artists, acrobats, tight-rope performers, trained animal acts and Zacchini, the "human cannonball". "The Big Ear" is the Kaleidoscope production for Sunday, March 22, and will be a full report on wire tapping.

WISDOM returns to the NBC network Sunday, Feb. 8, with its continuing series of visits with some of the eminent personalities of our time. The first interview will be with Edith Hamilton, who is considered by many to be the foremost living authority on the ancient civilizations of Greece and Rome.

MARIA GOLOVIN, the Gian Carlo Menotti opera which was presented at the Brussels World's Fair last summer, will be given on the NBC-TV network Sunday, March 8, 5-7 p. m.

SID CAESAR-ART CARNEY SHOW will be a special for NBC on Sunday, May 3. This promises to be one of the best shows of the season.

MEET ME IN ST. LOUIS will star Jane Powell in the CBS two-hour musical lined up for April 26.

DAVID NIVEN will be host of a filmed drama series to make its debut on NBC-TV April 7 as a replacement for "The Californians".

STRANGER IN PARADISE

TOWER ISLE, Jamaica, B.W.I.

This should have been written in New York where I'd planned to return today. But this mouse's plans went awfully agley again. Dirty weather kicked up somewhere in the Caribbean and it was deemed best to keep Arthur Godfrey's plane on the ground rather than risk a run to Miami. So those of us who flew over in Godfrey's DC-3 are stuck here. I haven't been so badly stuck since I got stranded by a national strike in the south of France and couldn't get home for five days.

So instead of my cozy little office in New York, I'm looking out over the blue, blue Caribbean, a terrible thing. Little sailboats are skimming about the tiny lagoon on which this sweet little hotel nestles; some idiot is water skiing and the air is alight with the soft cries of the privileged classes enjoying their privileges. Not only am I denied the privilege of fighting the traffic in New York for another day, but the Columbia Broadcasting System is going to have to get along for at least one day without Arthur Godfrey. Can it manage, you suppose?

Tony Marvin is going to have to go it alone. That's a sight I'd love to see but I won't be able to because Jamaica has no television. Imagine! In this enlightened age, no television. Jamaica has sunshine and sea and an unimaginably balmy climate. But no TV. What on earth do you suppose these primitive people do with their time? Well, I'll tell you what we did with ours. Yesterday, Godfrey and the rest of us went up the coast in little speedboats to look at a waterfall which pours out of the mountains and into the sea. Crazy, crazy! Godfrey, bum hip and all, SCOUTER HONORED, Clifford R. Betts, prominent civic leader and president of the Betts Machine Co., was awarded the coveted Silver Beaver as the outstanding Scouter of the year when the annual Boy Scout Recognition dinner was held Monday evening. The recipient has served scouting almost continuously since 1920.

The president's award, for outstanding achievement in 1958, was presented to Pack 46, Pleasant twp. PTA, Walter Grimes, cubmaster; Troop 10; Holy Redeemer Church, Wesley Redfield, scoutmaster; and Post 2, Grace Methodist Church, cubmaster.

climbed up the waterfall and we all went swimming in a little fresh water pool formed by the cascading water.

Last night, we sat on the terrace and watched a show put on by the chambermaids and other help around the hotel. Calypso songs and dances and gymnastic tricks and that fetching bit of insanity known as the limbo that you see all over the Caribbean. It was a marvelously spirited and beautifully paced show that went on just long enough, though it had no director and no producer.

What it had instead was a clean-lined grace and a completely instinctive rhythm, a very true tone and taste. Practically everyone in show business who has ever seen these captivating amateur performers of the islands has thought of taking them back and introducing them into the main stream of show business. Once in awhile someone does do just that only to discover that they don't transplant easily. Like the gorgeous tropical fish, they lose their gleaming colors when they are pulled out of their native waters. They need the atmosphere, the climate, the very air of the Caribbean. A few like Harry Belafonte, who spent his boyhood in Jamaica, make it. Most of them don't.

Today, still forcibly deprived of my beloved television set, I donned an aqua lung and went looking at fish. Prettier by far than color television are the fish of this area. The sea is warm and still and glowing with spectacular colors and the fish in their private world pursue their destinies with a sureness or touch that this particular mortal can only envy.

Godfrey, I might add, is much better with the aqua lung than I am, having had much more practice. The other day on his show, he donned an aqua lung and got pulled around a pool by a 600-pound turtle. He's a great hedonist, Godfrey, flying his own plane, piloting his own boat, incessantly reaching out for new experiences. If he sees a waterfall, as we did yesterday, he has to climb it and swim in it. Today, a guy came around with a bambaline, which is a sort of stringed instrument made out of bamboo. Right away Godfrey bought one and, when last I saw him, he was down the beach learning how to play it. And doing very well at it. The guy tried to sell me one but I said no, I'd passed that stage in life where I wanted to learn how to master a bambaline. But not Arthur. He'll never pass that stage.

I don't know why I'm telling you all this except to explain that I haven't seen any television recently. Did I miss anything good?

Modern Communications And Ancient Principle Help Restore Electrical Power During Flood

By Lewis Crippen

Modern communication systems were employed by the Warren Electric Cooperative to help restore electrical service to customers between Pittsfield and Bear Lake following the great flood of this week. Yet, it was the oldest principle known to man for crossing raging streams, that finally provided the transportation needed to reach a fallen utility pole which short-circuited the electrical current when the lines dipped into the Brokenstraw Creek.

It took only a short time for the trouble to be spotted when patrons began to call Youngsville Wednesday afternoon that they had no electricity. It took much longer for the technicians of the company to determine how the trouble spot could be reached both dry and in safety.

A pole which stood on dry ground only a few hours before was now broken off by the grinding of a huge piece of ice powered by a normally peaceful stream that was swollen beyond its banks by heavy rains and melting snow. Relieving the problem meant only to free the wires from the crossarms as the wires would then snap to a position high above the turbulent stream. Crossing the raging water's was the more difficult handicap and it took skill beyond the normal range of the company's experts.

Fire Chief Merle See was summoned from Youngsville to determine if the job was one for the Civil Defense "duck". The 35-mile-per-hour current was considered too risky for the bulky vehicle by both Chief See and the "duck's" operators who were rushed to the scene about 1-1/2 miles west of Pittsfield.

Boatmen "Gib" McCollough and Ray Osborne vetoed the use of row boats or powered boats. Both men are very active in boating and have traveled the Allegheny for many years which gave them a wealth of background experience to shake off the suggestion as "not for a boat".

Finally the brilliant suggestion -- why not a life raft? Well, why not? But where do you find a life raft on a cold, foggy, January night. And especially on a night when practically every means of water transportation is in use evacuating residents from inundated areas.

In desperation, with hundreds of homes in darkness, Manager Max "Dusty" Rhodes called the Sheriff's department in the Warren County Courthouse. In the matter of seconds, Deputy Don Allen had contacted Chautauqua County, New York, by radio, and was assured that such a piece of equipment could be found in the lakeside area and would be rushed toward Youngsville. The Warren Electric employees bee-lined toward Jamestown and the piece of air-inflated, floating equipment was transferred from the Sheriff's car to the electrician's truck.

Early the next morning, a taut line held the raft from plummeting downstream as Frank Belser and Marion Howles paddled their way to the severed telephone pole and cut the wires free from the swirling stream. Power flooded the homes in the Pittsfield-Bear Lake area because the ancient principle of "floating on water" allowed the repairs to be made days before the water receded.

Actually, the Warren Electric Co-op. had three poles down in this same area. They will be replaced when the Brokenstraw is back within its banks. The inconvenience suffered by the subscribers may have been indirectly caused by their previous actions. The right-of-ways which were allowed the company are on the lowlands where they are easily surrounded by water because it is the land least desirable to the farmers. Sometimes the very best is none too good but stream-side locations for utility lines can court disaster.

UNBEATEN WRESTLERS WIN FIFTH DUAL MATCH

The Warren High School matmen owned their third Section II, District 10 opponent and won their fifth dual match of the season in five starts when they whipped the Corry Beavers, 35 to 10, at Beaty Gym Monday night.

Gail Page, 127 lb.; John Colvin, 138 lb.; and John Mead, 165 lb. won with second period falls and on Seder, 145 lb. pinned his opponent in the third period for the Blue and White.

Dean Lester, 95 lb.; Mike Long, 120 lb.; Bob Long, 133 lb.; Andy Larson, 154 lb. and Jim Olson, 185 lb., copped decision victories for the Dragons.

ROCKETS HAND DRAGONS FIRST LEAGUE SETBACK

The Titusville Rockets took a lead early in the first quarter and lunged to it to down the Warren Dragon's, 60 to 53, in a Section II, District 10 cage encounter in Titusville last Saturday night. The loss was the Blue and White's first in league play following a pair of victories.

Poor shooting from the field coupled with defensive lapses led to the Warren downfall. In the final quarter Warren spurred to trail by only three points on two occasions, 52 to 49 and 54 to 51, only to have the Rockets pull ahead again.

Dick Wilson, who came off the Warren bench to start at center, pulled down more than his share of rebounds, and, with Nicky Creola, led the Dragon scorers with 12 points.

MEADVILLE BULLDOGS CLIP SKIDDING WARREN CAGERS

The Meadville Bulldogs celebrated a trip to relatively drier ground Tuesday night when they easily disposed of the Warren Dragon cagers, 65 to 46, in a Section II, District 10 skirmish on Beaty Gym.

The loss was the Blue and White's second consecutive loop setback, their third loss in succession and their fourth whipping in five games. Previous to that the Dragons had racked up ten consecutive victories without tasting defeat.

Two bad quarters harmed the Dragons' cause. They fell behind the visitors, 18 to 8, at the end of the first frame and were outscored by the Bulldogs, 24 to 9, in the final period.

Behind by a 20 to 8 count early in the second quarter, the Dragons spurred to trail Meadville by four points, 30 to 26, at halftime. After staying even with the Bulldogs in the third quarter, the Dragons could not find the rim in the final period and were badly outdistanced.

Nicky Creola accounted for over half of Warren's scoring as he rimmed 25 markers.

BRADFORD GAME CANCELLED

The Bradford High School basketball team will make no appearance in Warren this season. A scheduled game between Warren and Bradford on Beaty Gym on Tuesday, February 10, was cancelled by Warren High School officials in the best interests of their athletic program. The cancellation was prompted by football-like strategy and fan reaction at a basketball game in Bradford last week.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL CAGE PLAY NEXT WEEK

Four Warren County high school quintets will play tomorrow and next Tuesday nights.

Tomorrow night's schedule finds Warren (11 and 4) at Franklin in a Section II encounter, Sheffield (7 and 5) hosting Emporium in an EML game, and Youngsville (5 and 5) at Northern Area (2 and 11) in UAL action.

Next Tuesday Warren will travel to Corry in Section II play, Sheffield will go to Otto Township for an AML game, Youngsville will entertain Lawrence Park and Northern Area will trek to Southwestern, N.Y.

YMCA CITY LEAGUE

In City League action last Thursday night, the Blueberry Hill Inn easily defeated Struthers Hose, 82-59, and the Style Shop hit the win trail again with a 75-49 victory over G. G. Greenes.

Blueberry held only a 36-31 bulge at the midway mark but they managed to outpoint the Hosemen by seven and eleven in the final periods to register the win.

BHI placed all their men in the scoring column with Bob Reese's 22 points leading the pack. Pete Bova with 16 and Don Labesky with 14 led the Struthers five.

Style Shop garnered a 10 point margin in the first quarter and continued to outscore G. G. Greenes to record their victory. Greenes did not find the range until the final frame when they tossed through 18 markers.

Kolesar's 22 points paved the way for the Style Shop and Carlson and Harrington with 12 and 11 points paced the Greene's aggregation.

Monday night's City League activity was featured by Style Shop's hard fought victory over Blueberry by a 66-60 score. The game was marred by a temper flare-up and also a compound fracture injury to a Styler which could have been avoided. The large crowd on hand for the contest enjoyed the interesting basketball played by both teams, however.

It was a battle royal right down to the wire with the difference in scores never exceeding ten points. The edge was at the foul line where the Stylers held the advantage.

Ed Lindberg and Jerry Leonard led the victors with 21 and 17 points while the sharp shooting of Dick Danielson, who hit for 18, kept BHI in the race.

The second tilt saw Struthers gain an easy win over G. G. Greenes 64-46. Although outpointed by Greenes in the second half, Struthers 21-5 effort in the second quarter held them up.

Don Labesky was in the top spot for Struthers with 24 tallies with the rest of the scoring evenly divided, a good sign. Carlson and Harrington were the big men for Greenes with 11 and 9 points.

Tonight Style Shop meets Struthers at 7 p.m. and Blueberry will scrap with Greenes at 8. With the second half shaping up into a nip and tuck battle, larger crowds are anticipated.

Holy Redeemer defeated Clarendon Methodist, 55 to 46. Depto dumped 26 for the winners and Lobdell and Lane each had 13 for Clarendon.

Tuesday night Clarendon Methodist upset previously unbeaten First Methodist, 71 to 47, to force a three-way tie for first place. Lane led Clarendon with 27 and Bevevino paced First Methodist with 23.

80,000 ACRES of uncropped, idle farm land in Erie, Crawford, Warren, Forest and Venango counties should be producing for local forest industries, according to the Dept.
of Forests and Waters office in Warren.

A forest crop worth over 20 million dollars would be available on this land (9,745 acres of which are in Warren County) in 25 to 30 years if planted to forest trees now.

State nurseries of the department now have available limited supplies of desirable forest tree seedlings for reforestation of idle lands. Applications for next spring's planting should be made soon, as February 15 is the deadline for acceptance.

Information on a reforestation program for your non-producing

ACCESS SITES

There is little use of having streams on which to boat and in which to fish and swim if you can't reach them. To assure the public access to Pennsylvania waters the state plans to spend money annually for areas which will allow access to streams and lakes.

During 1959 the Fish Commission will develop twenty-four fishing access sites on four rivers and fourteen lakes. Included will be access roads, parking areas, and launching ramps on the Allegheny in Warren, Forest, and Venango counties.

FLY FISHING ONLY

Warren county will have a mile and a half of trout stream which will be limited to fly fishing only this year. It is Caldwell creek, between Seklirk and Dottyville.

On such streams only artificial flies and streamers are allowed. Weights or sinkers up to the equivalent of 2 BB shot may be built into the fly or streamer or affixed to the leader. Only conventional fly fishing tackle (not spinning tackle) may be used. Possession of bait fish or fish bait is prohibited. Fishing hours are from 5 a. m. to 9 p. m., and the minimum size is nine inches. The daily limit is six.

WHY BE SURPRISED?

We constantly read game commission releases which suggest that game protectors cannot understand how hunters mistake elk for deer and make similar errors of judgment while using weapons. We find no mystery here.

We doubt if the average hunter knows very much about the animals which he shoots and the woodlands in which they dwell. A major share of them bought a license and a gun and took to the woods and fields for a few hours of healthy fun.

Pennsylvania does not discourage this approach to hunting. In fact it encourages it. We are inclined to place a large price on the value of hunting, and the price is the dollars it produces in the way of business. If the hunters didn't come in by the thousands to spend their dollars in large volume we wouldn't tolerate their presence.

If a green hunter, whose only experience with deer is limited to those he saw in the zoo, and perhaps they were Bighorn sheep, knocks over a bald elk in antlerless deer season, who should be amazed?

In fact, if a major share of those alleged huntsmen who lug guns over our ridges saw a well racked elk they would draw a solid aim and fire. A deer is a deer is a deer to the guy who doesn't know a swamp black bird from a starling or a flicker from a meadow lark.

The game warden is put through schooling which should provide him with a thorough knowledge of the forests and its inhabitants. He naturally knows much more about the denizens than the average hunter who gets into the forests once a year.

We are well aware that ignorance of the law is no excuse. And ignorance in the case of the game laws also includes ignorance of the outdoors. The man who buys a gun to go a shooting probably takes that risk.

But there is something about the arrangement which bothers us. We seem to be urging all comers, whether or not they know anything about the woodlands, to participate in a shooting sport. The resultant fines when they violate the laws seem out of proportion in relation to the penalties for infractions involving other laws which govern much more common activities on the part of the general public.

"AGRI-BUSINESS" was Bill Carroll's topic for his speech at the dinner held last Wednesday by the Kiwanis Club and the Warren County Extension Committee. Mr. Carroll is an Agricultural Economist from Penn State.

Among those present at the joint luncheon and business session were (l. to r.) Dick Betts, 2nd vice-president of the Kiwanis; Charles Merroth, chairman of the agricultural committee; Bernard Wing, county agent; Mrs. Geraldine Johnston, chairman of the county extension home economic committee; Wallace Barlow, president of the agricultural extension association; Plummer Collins, Kiwanis president; H. K. Anders, associate director of agricultural extension at Penn State; and Robert Anstadt, 1st vice-president of the Kiwanis.

THE STYLE SHOP TEAM of the Y City League is pictured here before their tilt with Greenes last Thursday. The Stylers copped second place in the first half and after their thrilling 66-60 victory over Blueberry last Monday certainly look like a team to be in contention for the second half laurels. The squad is coached by Mel Bines who has kept the independent basketball alive in Warren for several years by scheduling many outside attractions.

STAR IN WARREN HIGH SCHOOL EVENING OF PLAYS

JACK FALLIN

PAT O'HARA

DAN OTTERBEIN

The Warren high school Dramatics Club will present its annual Evening of Plays on the school stage at 7:30 o'clock Thursday and Friday, February 5 and 6.

The first play, a rollicking comedy about an actress who firmly believes she is "Never Too Old" for the stage, stars Pat O'Hara.

"Sunday Costs 5 Pesos" is next and features in the spotlight Dan Otterbein. This play takes place in Mexico where love trouble causes much excitement on a quiet Sunday afternoon.

In "Goodnight Please" the plight of an average family will be surveyed when the head of the house decides to take to his bed for two weeks and get out of it at no cost.

For the finale the students will present the story of a condemned criminal, "The Valiant", who will or will not confess to a crime, although his life hangs in the balance. Starring in this will be Jack Fallin.

Tickets for the play are priced at 50 cents and may be obtained from any Dramatics Club member or in the school homerooms.

WOOLWORTH TO WALGREN ON LIBERTY STREET

$110,000 PARKING PROJECT. The Warren Parking Authority is completing negotiations which will provide Warren with 240 more parking spaces on the Island at the foot of Liberty st. The project trails the purchase of the Nulph property on Market st, where 32 cars will eventually be accommodated.

Aside from waiting for the papers to be drawn up for the $72,000 buy of land from Nelson and Ell-berg, the authority is also looking for the $10,000 aid request from borough council.

In all, both new parking lots would cost the authority in the neighborhood of $110,000. This figure includes land, remodeling, installation of meters, etc. Also the expense of a bridge from the point of the island to Memorial Park.

The strip of land to be bought on the Island (pictured) is along the right side as you face west from lower Liberty st.

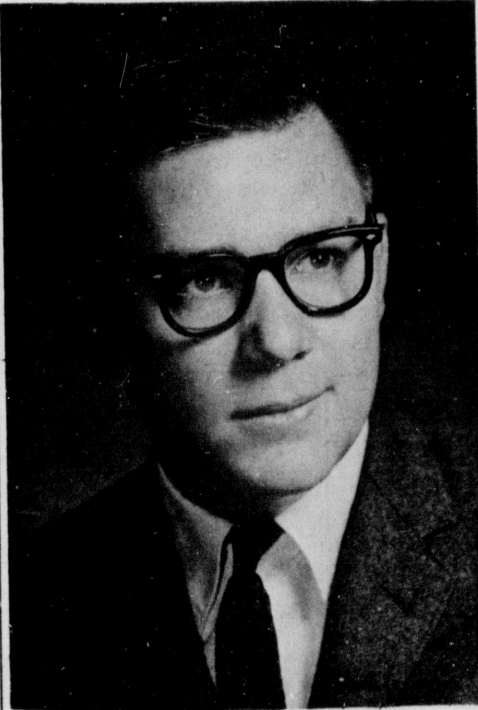

Besides council, the authority is asking the Chamber of Commerce to raise $7,500. The authority will cover the initial incidentals and plans call for the income from the meters to eventually pay for the remaining costs.

DEN 3 OF PACK 13 from North Warren were the guests of the Warren Observer last Wednesday. The group, under the supervision of Mrs. Fred Lawton, was given a tour of the plant and an explanation of the various processes.

Making the tour were J. Mahon, J. Guiffre, D. Swanson, R. Regina, and T. Lawton (front row, l. to r.) and D. Douds and Mrs. Lawton (back row).

PENN STATE GRAD. Richard K. Helmbrecht, son of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne C. Helmbrecht, Warren, was graduated January 25 from the Pennsylvania State University with a bachelor of arts degree. He majored in political science and pre-law.

While attending Penn State he was manager of the golf team and a member of the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity.

PATIENCE. Seen at the recent black and white photography exhibit in the Warren library were many fine prints turned out by area cameramen. One of the best was this trout going for a fly, shot by Treat

Davidson who has earned an international reputation as a photographer. (Observer reproduction was taken with natural light, 1/4 of a second, open to f2. Held by hand.)
